The Guild is a for profit member-owned Cooperative. The member-owners share in the control of the co-op through the Board which sets policy and supervises the day to day operations. Members are elected to the Board of Directors at the membership meeting held annually in March. Members have a voice and vote at the Annual Membership Meeting, usually in March. Dues are $75.00 per year. Board meetings are open to all members.

Review of Applications

The Standards Committee examines all submitted jury items to determine if the work meets the Guild's standards of design, originality, and craftsmanship. The Guild encourages and promotes excellence in both traditional and contemporary hand-made crafts. Only craft artists who create and market their own original handcrafted work may participate in the Guild. Entries are judged on craftsmanship, design, quality, appropriateness of materials, and the detailed explanation of the artistic process. The Guild accepts handmade (defined as using hand tools or hand directed machine tools), high quality traditional and contemporary functional and decorative crafts and fine art. The Guild does not accept commercially manufactured products or items manufactured from molds or kits, toxicity in a finished piece, or non-original designs.

The Guild Standards Committee evaluations are based on mastery of craftsmanship, originality and overall design and quality of products. Proper labeling (including safety) and packaging are important and are evaluated. Market readiness and professionalism are considered. Items should be clean and submitted to the committee as they would be given to the Gallery for display and sale.

The growth of media and techniques in the arts and crafts is ever changing with new techniques and products constantly entering the market. The Standards Committee's goal is to admit and maintain Guild members who exhibit competency in their craft, and professionalism in its packaging and display. To this end, an artist's body of work should show the artist's knowledge about the medium, a professional level of technical competency and originality of design.

Board of Directors Approval

All reviewed applications and Standards Committee recommendations for membership are forwarded to the Board for disposition at the Board's next scheduled meeting. An applicant may be accepted, rejected or rejected with an invitation to re-submit.

Following Board review, each applicant will receive a letter from the President of the Board of Directors indicating the status of his/her membership. A member of the Standards Committee will serve as liaison between the Guild and any applicant asked to resubmit. Applicants accepted into the Guild will receive written notification of the results, a membership card, and a stock certificate from the President of the Board of Directors within two weeks following the meeting of the Board.

Note: Because Arkansas residency is a requirement of membership in the Guild it is the policy of the Guild that artists who move out of state are no longer eligible for membership at the time of their move.

To maintain our high standards, each member's work is re-juried every five years.
